1. Matters to Report

Archy reports on the candidates for the upcoming elections.

Moses reports that the handover dinner will be at the start of Lent term.

Matteo has put the information on Movember in his pigeonhole and on the noticeboard.

Melissa is hosting an ICUSU formal on Wednesday, which has around 150 guests.

Amy is struggling to find someone to instruct yoga for welfare. Moses suggests trying the boat club's yoga instructor (Ellie), and Holly suggests using the university yoga society. Amy will try to arrange a few different welfare events (such as massage and meditation) in the last few weeks of term, and judge which seem the most popular.

Richard reports that he has completed the GAC allocation. He will shortly send a report to the undergraduates.

Archy reports that it is too late to allow people to run on a joint ticket in the forthcoming elections.

Questions will now be allowed from one candidate to another (with a limit of one question per candidate) – carried by a vote of 10-4. The idea of allowing JPC members to ask targeted questions did not pass (7-6).

2. Paper Voting

Ideally this will take place on Wednesday. Time slots will be sorted out on Doodle.

3. AOB

Zoe has received an email from the CUSU women's officer with "official guidelines" for informing people about an attack. She will pass this on to Mark Wormald.
